IT'S THE LAW!

DID YOU KNOW THAT, IN FLORIDA...

Having a TRUST does not eliminate the need for a WILL. A Pour-Over Will covers assets not in the Trust which may still have to go through Probate. However, by having a Will, you are able to appoint a Personal Representative of your own choosing instead of the Court appointing one for you had you died INTESTATE (i.e., without a Will).

SUMMARY ADMINISTRATION is a streamlined version of Probate that allows for a quicker and more efficient processing of a deceased person's Estate. It is a "shortcut" available only if: 1) The death occurred more than two years ago; or 2) the total value of the Estate does not exceed $75,000.00.

If a CHILD SUPPORT Order has been violated, the non-paying party may be in CONTEMPT OF COURT if the failure to pay is deemed willful by the Court. However, even if one party isn't paying, he/she still has a right to see his/her child so the other party cannot deny Timesharing due to non-payment.
